Understanding Flight Credits vs. Trip Credits

Before you pick up the phone, it is helpful to know that American Airlines generally issues two types of credits: Flight Credits and Trip Credits. A Flight Credit is usually from a totally unused ticket and can only be used by the original passenger, whereas a Trip Credit is more flexible and can sometimes be used for others. If you are unsure which one you have, the team at ☎+1(888) 727 0205 can look up your record using your ticket number or confirmation code.

They will clarify if your credit is transferable and walk you through the redemption process so you don't lose your money.
